Brief Sketches of Their Lives, Which Should Be An Inspiration to All; Opportunities In Portsmouth for the Hard-working, Conscientious Young Man Just As Good As Anywhere Else In The World

Like many of the successful Automobile Company, was born business men of today, James A. Johnson, on a farm and received his early lessons in hard work while helping with the necessary labor there. Though Mr. Johnson has been in Portsmouth but eight years he has for 23 years been actively engaged in the life of Scioto County through his work with the Scioto County Farm Bureau of which he was one of the first directors.

James A. Johnson was born in Wamsley, Adams county, August 27, 1876. After completing his education he taught school for several terms and later went into business in a general store at Sedan. Ever since coming to Scioto county in 1901 Mr. Johnson has been interested in fruit growing. Although since 1916 he has been engaged in the automobile business in Portsmouth, he still retains his fruit farm at Sedan, and his interest in the Johnson-Mercer store there.

Mr. Johnson is a member of the Baptist church, the Masonic orders, Chamber of Commerce, Retail Merchants' Association, Ohio Horticultural Society, Ohio Automotive Trade Association, and Portsmouth Automobile Dealers' Association. In 1902 he was married to Miss Anna Mead, and they have two children, Osa, a student at Ohio State University, and John, who attends the Portsmouth High School.

Johnson Brothers are building their business on "Johnson Brothers Self Transportation." They believe that individual transportation consists not only of a good car but of an organization of men and material.

Mr. Johnson states that nowhere would he rather bring up his family than in Portsmouth. With pride he escorts the traveler over the city, pointing out our beautiful churches and schools which are builders for God and man.

NEW YORK REPORTER TELLS ABOUT STOCK STORY

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Harry F. Sinclair was formally cited to the senate for contempt for his refusal to submit to further questioning by the oil committee.

Immediately after Chairman Ladd submitted the committee report making the citation, Senator Walsh, the committee prosecutor, recommended the case be referred to the District of Columbia courts for grand jury proceedings.

The senate voted to certify to the United States attorney the facts in connection with Sinclair's refusal to answer questions before the oil committee.

The vote was 72 to 1. Senator Filkins, Republican, West Virginia, casting the negative vote.

After reviewing the resolutions under which the committee has been conducting its inquiry, the citation said: "That on the 22nd day of March, 1924, a witness, Harry F. Sinclair, being called before the committee and being on the stand, refused to answer any questions that might be propounded to him by any member of the committee as set forth in the report and by the committee to the senate on Saturday, the said 22nd day of March, 1924, a copy of which is hereto appended and made a part hereof."

That upon such statement so being made by the said witness, Harry F. Sinclair, questions pertinent to the inquiry being propounded by the said committee were addressed to the witness as set forth in the said report so submitted on Saturday, the 22nd day of March, 1924, which the witness severally declined and refused to answer as therein set forth.

"And now your committee reports to the senate that the said Harry F. Sinclair, having appeared as a witness before your said committee, refused to answer questions pertinent to the question under inquiry and is in contempt of the said committee and of the senate."

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Odds and ends of testimony bearing widely separated aspects of its inquiry went into the record of the oil committee today, while its members were perfecting plans to call Harry Sinclair into court because of his refusal to submit himself to further questioning.

Another witness refused to testify before the oil committee today, C. C. Chase, customs collector at El Paso and son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, declined to answer any questions propounded to him on the ground that it might tend to incriminate him. He has been referred to in previous testimony as having approached Price McKinney of Cleveland with a request that McKinney represent himself as having loaned $100,000 to Fall.

As if the committee had determined to push their task of investigation to a quick conclusion, witnesses succeeded each other rapidly at the big committee table, and most of them were dismissed with only a scant semblance of cross examination.

Carmel A. Thompson, a Cleveland, one of President Coolidge's campaign managers, and a close friend of the late President Harding, testified that he had no knowledge of "an oil deal" at the Republican National Convention of 1920.

Harold Visser, a reporter for the New York Times, told the committee he had received confirmation from the New York office of Will H. Hays, that Hays would testify to a stock transaction. (Continued On Page Seven)

Daugherty Committee To Probe Deeper Into Smith's Death

Painted Fish and Bootleg Candy Are The Latest

HARRISBURG, PA., March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Painted fish have been found in Philadelphia sea food markets, John S. McKee, deputy secretary of agriculture declared today. White salmon, dipped in coal tar dye to give them a reddish tint, were sold as red salmon, Mr. McKee said.

The fish, which were discovered by Robert M. Simmers, general agent of the bureau of foods, were painted in Chicago and shipped to Philadelphia. As an explanation of the painting, it was pointed out that the value of red salmon is four times that of the white variety. Officials of the bureau have ordered an investigation of all fish markets in the state to determine whether there has been a general distribution of the painted fish. Where they are found, prosecutions will be instituted.

Less than a week ago the bureau discovered that "bootleg" candy confections, containing intoxicating beverages, were appearing in the state.

Pacifist's Address In Church Leads To Disturbance

CHICAGO, March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Disturbance caused by the address of Brent Dow Allison, an avowed pacifist before the Epworth League of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Evanston, last night seems destined to have a sequel Sunday, April 6, when Professor Philip Fox, of the R. O. T. C., of Northwestern University, is to address the League on "Preparedness."

The bitterness of the debate last night was intensified when Allison, who served at Leavenworth for draft evasion, charged that the United States was preparing for another war.

The meeting at which Allison spoke on "The Youth Movement in Germany," was followed by a patriotic rally called by Captain J. W. Gorbey, past commander of Lake Forest Post of the American Legion.

The outbreak followed presentation by members of the legion of a resolution that Allison's war record disqualified him from addressing an American audience. He also submitted a letter from Colonel J. H. Wigmore, dean of Northwestern University law school, raising a question of the propriety of Allison's address.

Dr. E. F. Tittle, the pastor, called for a vote on the resolution and 117 to 9, he carried Allison.

Captain C. B. Hopkins of the military intelligence and others out of sympathy with the meeting were glibly when they ventured to protest or to catch Allison. Fisticuffs were narrowly averted.

CHICAGO, March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Organized gangs of card sharks operating on railroad trains are responsible for the posting by the Pullman Company of the following bulletin in its sleeping cars:

A Pullman Company official says today that in the last twelve years of the great harvest trains. The sharks generally work in pairs or trios, make a quick clean-up, leave the train at a division point, and work back to their base.

Hearing On Raise of Bell Phone Rates

COLUMBUS, O., March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Further direct testimony will be introduced by the Ohio Bell Telephone Company when its hearing is resumed before the public utilities commission here today on the company's application for an increase in long distance telephone rates.

Witnesses have indicated that they will explain details of the savings which the company is enabled to make through its association with the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and how the Ohio Bell is enabled to keep its operating costs down by using standardized equipment, modern devices and improvements as developed by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company. Telephone rates are based on these operating costs.

Among witnesses scheduled to appear today are E. A. Kostitski, chief engineer of the Ohio Bell Telephone Company; W. G. Schneider, valuation engineer, and W. T. Anthony, general traffic manager. Officials representing various communities in the state also are expected to attend.

Company officials have said that present toll rates are inadequate and that additional revenue is necessary to provide for operating expenses and for a fair return on the value of the property used. Increase in revenue to the Ohio Bell and the five hundred independent companies with which it connects will not exceed $400,000 a year, they said, and the average increase for each long distance message will not exceed three cents.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—(By the United Press)—The senate Daugherty committee in recess because of the illness of Senator Wheeler today decided to dig deeper into the circumstances surrounding the death of Jess Smith, Attorney General Daugherty's intimate friend, who was found dead, supposedly a suicide, in Daugherty's apartments here, last May.

Though Mrs. Roxie Smith, divorced wife of Smith, expressly denied any intention of hinting at possible murder of Smith when she testified before the committee, Senator Brookhart today announced that the committee had decided to investigate all phases of the suicide of Smith in view of the fact that no autopsy had been performed at the time of his death.

While no subpoena has been issued for Dr. A. Ramsey Nevick, District of Columbia coroner, Brookhart said he expected to call him to explain the failure to perform the autopsy and other circumstances surrounding Smith's death.

"There was no need of an autopsy," Dr. Nevick told the United Press today. It was a plain case of suicide if I ever saw one. There was no mystery about it and no suspicious circumstances. I issued a certificate of death by suicide without an autopsy."

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Further hearings in the senate investigation of Attorney General Daugherty today, were postponed until Wednesday.

The postponement was due to the illness of Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, the committee prosecutor, and to conflicting engagements by other committee members.

Senator Wheeler is confined to his bed with a severe cold. Another member, Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, was engaged with the opening of a new investigation into the business transactions. Still another, Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, was called out of the city. Chairman Brookhart said that the inquiry would proceed on Wednesday, even if Senator Wheeler should be unable to return. The Montana senator has been suffering from a cold for several days.

When the committee resumes on Wednesday it hopes to conclude with the testimony and cross-examination of Miss Roxie Smith, divorced wife of Jesse Smith, the dead friend of the attorney general.

Open Land Fraud Probe

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—A subcommittee on the committee on postoffices was called together today to inquire into alleged land frauds in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas. Will H. Hays, former postmaster general, was summoned as the first witness.

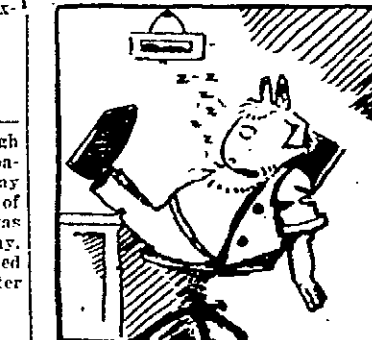

Senator Heflin, of Alabama, who introduced the resolution authorizing the inquiry, has charged that R. B. Creager, of Brownsville, a Republican National Committeeman from Texas, was instrumental through conferences with officials here, in having an investigation dropped.

Senator Heflin charged that a group of companies and individuals, members of the Lower Rio Grande Valley Landmen's Association during a period of years defrauded a number of persons out of millions of dollars through sale of lands in Cameron and Hidalgo counties, Texas.

McAdoo Landslide In Georgia So Overwhelming No One Element Could Bring It About, Says Rockwell

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1924, by The Times.)
WASHINGTON, March 24.—David Ladd Rockwell, campaign manager for William Gibbs McAdoo, said today that it was absurd to attribute the McAdoo landslide in Georgia to the influence of the Ku Klux Klan.

"Mr. McAdoo's victory was so overwhelming," he declared, "that no single element brought it about. As for the Ku Klux Klan, the position of Mr. McAdoo was not in doubt. A heckler in the crowd at Macon, Georgia, asked Mr. McAdoo what his attitude was toward the K. K. K. There were cries of 'put him out,' but Mr. McAdoo insisted that nobody should be put out of his meetings simply for asking a question. He then proceeded to make answer declaring that he stood by the first amendment to the Federal constitution, which he quoted verbatim: Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the exercise thereof. He pointed out that the spirit of the constitution is to protect the right of free speech."

SOLEMNITY MARKS THE ELEVATION OF CARDINALS

ROME, March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Monsignor Patrick J. Hayes, archbishop of New York, and Monsignor George W. Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, were made cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church at a secret consistory this morning in the historic hall of the consistory at the Vatican. The ceremony carried out in conformity with centuries-old ritual was performed in majestic solemnity and a setting of colorful splendor.

The two American prelates thus raised to the dignity of princes of the church were not present, but awaited notification of their elevation at their respective temporary places of residence in Rome in accordance with custom. Cardinal Hayes received the "bulla" as the notification is called, at the American College and Cardinal Mundelein at the College of Propaganda.

Pope Praises Americans
The Pope in his allocution declared America to have attained "primacy" in charity and that he wished to remember this in an unusual way. Therefore he elevated to the sacred purple two prelates whose qualities and the importance of whose sees warranted.

"In the immense family which God has confided to us," the Pope said, "there are brothers more favored by divine providence who, through the father of all come to the assistance of their less fortunate brothers in their trials and disasters."

Clergymen Approve Dances In Church As Police Keep Crowd Back

NEW YORK, March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Some of the clergymen who acted as an unofficial jury to approve approval today of barroom dancing as performed in the historic church of St. Marks in the Bowery yesterday against the wishes of Bishop Manning.

Six barefooted girls, clad in flowing garments of silk, gave "the ritual dance of the Della Robbia Annunciation." Several clergymen, noted as jury at the invitation of the Rev. Dr. William Norman Guthrie, rector of St. Marks, who recently was requested by Bishop Manning of the New York Episcopal Diocese, to discontinue the dance services which he has been holding periodically.

The dancers appeared, both in the afternoon and evening. Admission was by card only and thousands were turned away. The police had to regulate the crowds outside the church.

"I offered to let Bishop Manning appoint twenty-five of a committee of fifty to judge the dancer and he ignored the offer," Dr. Guthrie said. "Then I invited the clergy and the public to witness it and judge for themselves. The bishop's stand is antecratic. I take the domestic view and on this dance I will stand or fall."

The six dances symbolized Birth, Death, Pain, Pleasure, Consciousness and the Virgin birth of earth. They danced to the music of the organ and a harp.

It was understood the bishop was unofficially represented, and that he will receive a report on the services.

Dr. Karl Reiland, rector of St. George's Protestant Episcopal Church, said he found the dances "beautiful and inspiring."

Streets Made Safer For School Children By The A. B. C. Boy Scout Safety Squad

The A. B. C. squad of Boy Scouts were busy today at every school building in the city, regulating traffic so as to aid in making the streets safe for school children and all other pedestrians. The Scouts gave up their entire vacation week in order to receive the proper instructions and practice, and the result was seen today in the smooth manner in which they kept traffic moving.

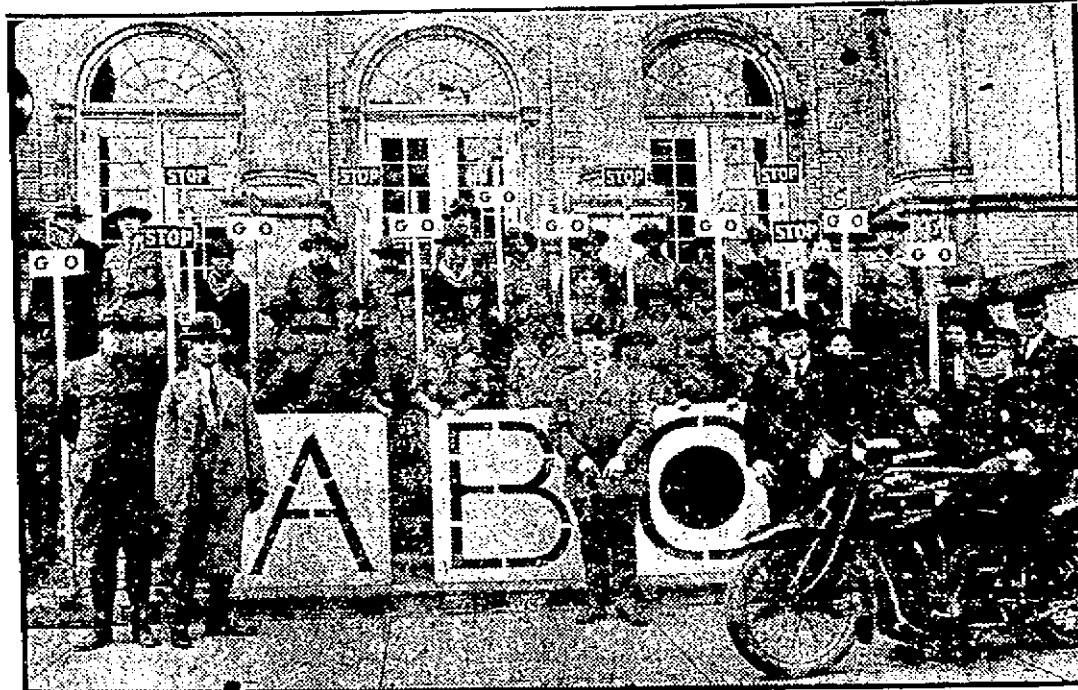

On emergency which the amateur officers had to meet this morning was to give a clear right of way to the Lincoln Street fire company, which was responding to a call at Front and Union streets. Teachers at the Union Street school say the Scouts had everything lined up with the right-of-way open for the fire company long before it reached the school corner.

All over the city there was heavy co-operation with the young officers, and the police department and all others who are sponsoring the movement said today they wished to thank the drivers of automobiles and the public generally for the manner in which they are helping to make the campaign a success.

The point to mark the streets has been delayed, but as soon as it reaches here the big two-foot "A. B. C." stencils will be used to mark street intersections.

In virtually all of the Sunday schools of the city yesterday the A. B. C. message was given to all attendants and was enthusiastically received.

The promoters of the A. B. C. campaign again wish to appeal to all drivers who are in a hurry to avoid streets on which school buildings are located.

To Quit Dail Eereann

DUBLIN, March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Joseph McGrath, who has resigned as minister of industry and commerce, declares that he and two or three others will resign membership in the Dail Eireann tomorrow. Referring to the recent army crisis, he says the agreements between himself and President Cosgrave by which he undertook to remain in the cabinet have been broken. He undertakes to secure the return of all stolen arms. The hunt for the men who killed British soldiers at Queenstown Friday continues. It is stated that military headquarters is fairly certain of the identity of the fugitives. They have been traced as far as Mr. O'Brien, County clerk, where it is supposed they escaped to the neighborhood hills. It is believed that if they are tracked to their hiding place they will not surrender without a fight.

Hard Task To Get McGraw Jury

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—With less than half of the jury selected, the second week of the trial in criminal court of Governor McGraw on charges of embezzlement, ran under way today. The first week of the trial was consumed in questioning of witnesses and the elimination of practically all of them for previously formed opinions as to the guilt or innocence of the defendant. Officials are hopeful a jury will be empaneled by the middle of the week. They declare the widespread publicity given the governor's affairs is responsible for the difficulty encountered in selecting the jury, most of the talesmen claiming some conviction regarding the case.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is Multisided coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is inexpensive and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months. Two or three teaspoonfuls is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Advertisement.

The Ritz Quartette

Late Of The 'Tuneful Musical Comedy "Tangerine"
Some Press Opinions Of This Quartette

Milwaukee Journal, Aug. 27th, 1923.
Davidson Theatre: The Ritz quartet stopped the show for fifteen minutes while it sang all the old songs from Nellie Gray through to a famous negro spiritual, and did them all without once shouting, a fact as interesting as it was pleasant.

Minneapolis Morning Tribune, Sept. 3rd, 1923. Metropolitan Opera House: The greatest surprise of the evening was uncovered, when the Ritz Quartet stepped forth and rendered a number of really delightful quartette numbers. We should think that this Ritz quartette might be trusted to break up the show at any time.

Duluth Herald, Oct. 1st, 1923, Garrick Theatre: The Ritz quartet is a priceless addition to the program and the only thing to be regretted is that the boys could not stay on the stage longer. Their perfect harmony and beautiful voices are delightful.

BABE FOUND DEAD; BREAD CRUMBS HAD LODGED IN LUNG

Inhalation of minute particles of bread, which lodged in the lung and caused fatal pneumonia, is given as the cause of the death of Russell H. Elmer, nine-months-old son of Elmer and Grace Elmer, of Harrisonville, south of The Divide, Sunday about midnight.

The child had been ill with whooping-cough since October, but its condition had never been serious. Saturday, when the baby started to choke on a piece of bread, the bread was forced on down. Particles of it are thought to have found their way down the windpipe and lodged in the lung.

The baby appeared as playful as ever Sunday and its breathing was normal when the father noticed at eleven o'clock. He awakened about midnight and on going to the baby's crib found that the spark of life had left the little body. Dr. Martin Taylor of Sciotoville was called, but his services were not needed. Coroner Virgil Fowler examined the body this morning and determined the cause of death.

Surviving are the parents and five other children, Mildred, Clyde, Charles, Harold and a twin brother, Ronald. The twins were born May 1, 1923.

Funeral services will be held from the home Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with Rev. Charles Reinhardt of the Sciotoville Christian church in charge. Burial will be in Wheelersburg cemetery.

While becoming cardinals from the moment of their nomination, the American dignitaries must wait until Thorsof and beholding their magnificent acts of filial piety and fraternal charity. We find pleasure in expressing to them from this exalted place in the distinguished assembly, a fervent declaration of our gratitude, that of a father who feels himself much indebted on behalf of his suffering children."

The consistory was participated in by all the cardinals resident in Rome. The hall was a dazzling mass of color. The striking violet robes of the cardinals, hanging to the ground in graceful folds, mingled with the purple of the mousings of the papal household, Swiss guards in their multi-colored medieval uniforms and bearing halberds, armed gendarmes, officers of the papal armed forces and numerous functionaries in historic garb added to the picturesqueness of the scene. The cardinals were ranged according to rank with Cardinal Vanuetti, their octogenarian dean at the head.

The ringing of a bell announced the approach of the pope, who entered amid profound silence. He was clad in white, his robes standing out in bold contrast to the rest of the colorful array. He walked slowly, flanked by a group of Swiss guards and members of the household. Each prelate knelt as he approached.

Kiss Papal Ring
When the pontiff took his place on the throne the cardinals paid him homage each in their approaching the throne and kissing the papal ring.

At the conclusion of the papal master of ceremonies in a low voice announced "extra omnes." All but the pope and members of the sacred college began to retire from the hall. When all those who were not to participate in the consistory had withdrawn, the doors were closed and a group of Swiss guards took up their station at the entrance.

The pope rose from his throne and uttered a short prayer to the Holy Ghost for the guidance of the consistory. He next read his allocution.

The election of the two new cardinals then took place and occupied but a brief time. The pontiff announced their names and then asked the required question: "Quid quis videretur?" ("Has any one anything to say?")

Each cardinal, beginning with the dean, rose in turn, bowed to the pope and removed his skull cap as a sign of assent. The pontiff then announced a list of bishops and other nominations and the consistory was over.

Descending from his throne the pope departed between rows of cardinals and was escorted back to his apartments by Swiss guards and members of the household.

Notify Americans of Election
Monsignor Gervasi, secretary to the pope, departed with papal couriers to notify the Americans of their election. The new cardinals, attended by gentlemen-in-waiting, received him clad in the vestments of archbishops, and each replied to the hierarch with a short address of gratitude.

day morning to be invested in the scarlet robes and hats and other insignia of their office. This ceremony, which is open to the public, is even more colorful than today's ceremony.

McAdoo

America was against religious intolerance. His answer was met with an outburst of cheers and applause.

"While we were confident of a victory in Georgia we had no idea that it would be a landslide. We recall that Woodrow Wilson stumped the state in 1912 but that Underwood carried it. The victory over Underwood today is significant of the way the South feels about McAdoo."

The campaign manager was in high spirits declaring that the organization for McAdoo was growing so strong that it would without doubt be able to control the convention.

"The dispatches from Missouri after the recent primary," he added, "did not give a clear picture of what happened there. We shall have a majority of the delegates at the Democratic state convention which is to be held shortly."

The state convention will be an interesting battle, for while Senator Reed failed to carry the primary, his friends will be active in his behalf in the hope of preventing Missouri from endorsing McAdoo. The fight, on the other hand, for McAdoo is largely anti-Reed and there are many former Wilson men in Missouri who are not especially interested in seeing McAdoo nominated but who will join forces with the McAdoo men to bring about the repudiation of Senator Reed who besides his breaks with the Wilson administration is now charged with having dragged McAdoo into the oil controversy without justification.

Mr. Rockwell is having a series of conferences here with leading Democrats. He is an active person who knows the campaign politics backwards and forwards. Four years ago he was the man who lined up so many states for James M. Cox of Ohio, that he assisted materially in the final victory then. Mr. Rockwell realizes that the charge of K. K. K. influence is being made against Mr. McAdoo, but he calls it absurd.

"At Illinois," he remarked, "where William O'Connell, a leading Catholic, is managing the McAdoo campaign. Also in Wisconsin, the candidate for delegate-at-large is Tom Fleming, a Catholic. Would these men take so prominent a part in the McAdoo campaign if they were not sincere in their belief that they are working for a free man from religious prejudice?"

The victory in Georgia is undoubtedly a turning point in the whole McAdoo campaign. It meant a great deal to his candidacy for it was the first southern primary after the recent revelations that he had accepted fees from corporations as an attorney after leaving public office. Had Georgia turned McAdoo down it would have been the end of his candidacy. Conversely, those who have been on the fence now are taking renewed interest in the campaign. The next fight is in South Dakota, where the Hearst influence is behind the protest ticket.

In Iowa there is a bitter fight. William Marshall, who is one of the Western allies of Charles F. Murphy, George Brennan, and the so-called organization leaders of the Democratic party, is a candidate for national committee, and is being fought by Clyde Herring, a McAdoo man, who recently ran for Governor. The outcome is being awaited with peculiar interest by Democratic politicians for if McAdoo can get control of the Iowa delegation it will help him in neighboring states of the West.

Altogether the McAdoo campaign shows no evidence of diminishing energy, but, on the contrary, seems to have taken on a new lease of life since the victory in Georgia.

Mellon Urges Early Tax Cut

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—(By the Associated Press)—The revenue bill to speed up consideration of the revenue bill was in the prospect for the senate committee when it took up today some of the few remaining administrative provisions with likelihood of reaching the rate schedule within a few days. The income tax rates will be the first of the schedules up for action, Republican members with the exception of Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, the insurgent leader, have indicated that they favor the Mellon proposals, while the Democrats are working out a new compromise which follows somewhat the Garner plan supported by house Democrats.

Secretary Mellon has added his voice to the movement to separate the provisions for a twenty-five per cent reduction in income taxes payable this year from the revenue bill and bring about its approval in a separate resolution.

In a letter to Representative Akerman, Republican, New Jersey, Mr. Mellon said he favored from a practical standpoint, the plan embodied by the house in the revenue bill allowing twenty-five per cent deductions on each quarterly installment as it falls due rather than elimination of the September installment payments.

Z. Lauterbach of the Hebrew Union College of Cincinnati, who was assisted in the reading of the service by Dr. Julian R. Feltman of the local Jewish Temple.

The pallbearers were W. L. Reinert, Harold C. Clayton, A. Schapiro, J. C. Bauer, Max Lehman and R. W. Anderson.

Out-of-town relatives who attended the funeral included: Mr. and Mrs. D. Tannenbaum and Reuben Tannenbaum of Scranton, Pa.; Mrs. J. Tannenbaum of Wilkes-Barre, Pa.; Mrs. Rose Brillant and son Joseph of Zanesville, Morris Resler of Columbus, Sam Blattner of Lima and Jack Brillant of Kalamazoo, Michigan.

Many of the lovely floral messages of sympathy, with which friends of the family sought to express their grief at the passing of so good a friend to those in distress were sent to the hospitals as a final message from the man who gave so freely of himself to relieve sickness and need during his lifetime.

While the body was being conveyed to Greenlawn cemetery and during the services at the grave, C. E. Kenn, organist of Holy Redeemer church, played appropriate selections on the beautiful church chimes.

"Thank-U" at High School Tuesday Night

Leave it to John Golden: That prolific producer has added another smashing success to his already long list of "wonder plays" in "Thank-U," acknowledged the comedy success of this generation which he will present at the high school Tuesday night, March 25.

John Golden's list of successes began with "Turn To The Right" and was followed by "Lightnin'," "Three Wise Fools," "The First Year," "Dear Me," and others which have turned theatrical history upside down. In "Thank-U" which is from the pen of Winchell Smith (co-author of "Lightnin'" and "Turn To The Right") and Tom Gresham, an old character is presented in a new and appealing way with the underpaid minister and incidentally offers a neat solution to the present day problem. A beautiful girl from Paris; the scapegoat son of a millionaire; a hardened old captain of industry; a church vestry; a yellow newspaper; a wealthy town flirt and a run bound who, reformed, are some of the characters that afford endless fun in "Thank-U."

Reserved seats are now on sale at the Samuel Levi furniture store, 1007 Gallia street. Proceeds from the performance will be used for the fund to build the pipe organ in the new Jewish Temple.

Looking For New Schedule on B. & O.

There is much talk about the spring schedule of the B. & O., but the only change locally expected is that trains 44 and 45, the Chillicothe Accommodation, will reverse the present arrangement by coming over the main line via Hamilton on the morning run and via Colton on the afternoon run, arriving at Chillicothe several minutes earlier in the evening in order to make connection with the traction line there. This is the only change expected.—Wellston Sentinel.

Stockdale to Get New Church

At a largely attended congregation at meeting held by the members and friends of the Stockdale Christian church, Sunday afternoon, it was unanimously decided to begin the erection of a new church building on the lot recently donated by Frank White, prominent merchant of the little town. The lot, which faces the main thoroughfare, is 35 by 150 feet, and the plans made at the congregational meeting do not miscarry it is hoped to have the new church building ready for occupancy this summer.

What will be no doubt one of the biggest crowds that ever assembled in Stockdale will occur on the day the corner stone is laid, which will be late in May or early June. A committee, consisting of Frank White, Edward Daniels and Jasper Lausing, was appointed to arrange complete details for the erection of the church and to map out a program for the corner stone laying festivities. Invitations will be sent to the churches of Portsmouth, New Boston, Seaford, Jacksonville, Wellston, Waverly, Iron—In fact towns and cities within a radius of fifty miles to attend these exercises. Arrangements are now under way to secure the services of J. J. Cahill, of Cleveland to deliver the principal address.

The congregation at Stockdale have been operating under a severe handicap, owing to inadequate quarters, but through it all they have maintained a wonderful spirit, and have been constantly gaining in strength and in favor with the people in the vicinity of Stockdale. That they stand high with their Methodist brethren is shown by the fact that the two congregations have pooled their prayer meeting interests. Union prayer services are held each week, one on Tuesday nights at the Methodist church and one on Thursday nights at the tabernacle.

On Friday night of this week, the minister of the Jackson Christian church will preach at the tabernacle, and a large crowd will no doubt be present.

All in all, the congregation is face to face with a great opportunity. Their new church building will be frame and stucco, equipped with furnace and electricity and with separate class rooms for the children who attend Bible school.

Central Presbyterian
Great interest marked the services last night at the Central Presbyterian church. A great congregation together with a powerful sermon on the subject, "It Works When It Is Worked," made a most logical and eloquent appeal. "Give the Gospel an opportunity to demonstrate its power and you will see how wonderfully and efficiently it works." When it goes to a country it changes marriage customs, burial customs, burial customs, etc., and establishes principles that make for good citizenship, just laws, hospitals, and brings people close to each other. Second, then, too, Christianity is practical because it works immediately. Thirdly, it works universally. Fourth, it works in individual hearts. There were a number of additions to the church last night and much good is being accomplished. Dr. White has won the interest and friendship of all who know him since he came.

JOHN McMILLAN, Mgr.

Thompson

by which Sinclair helped wipe out the Republican national deficit after the 1920 campaign.

Vivian said such a story was told to him by Joseph J. O'Neill, Hays' public director, but O'Neill in a telephone call to the committee, denied it.

The next witness, Martin J. Powers, of Philadelphia, denied a story that he was interested in any way with Teapot Dome and then proceeded to brand as "unsubstantiated lies" various other stories he said had been circulated about him. He was succeeded, on the witness stand, by Michael C. Curren, also of Philadelphia, who in turn denied some of the testimony of Powers.

Carol Thompson On Stand

Carol A. Thompson, of Cleveland, manager of President Coolidge's campaign in Ohio, was called as the first witness today in the oil inquiry.

In his examination of the witness the committee turned again to stories of an "deal" at the Chicago convention which nominated Harding. Meaningless operations were completed to leave to the courts the refusal of Harry P. Sinclair to testify further.

Before the questioning of Thompson, there was a brief excursion into the matter of Sinclair's contribution to the Republican National Committee to make up the deficit resulting from the 1920 campaign.

Senator Spencer, Republican, Missouri, remarked that he had noticed that a subpoena was out for Fred W. Gilmore, the Republican National treasurer.

"I now ask that we subpoena the chairman and secretary of the Democratic National Committee," said Senator Spencer. He noticed Mr. E. L. DeBony testified he gave $75,000 to the Democratic National Committee, while records show, as published, only $5,000 from him. Since we are going to these matters we ought to get both sides.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, suggested that the Republican funds had been investigated only so far as they were involved in the oil leases, and Senator Dill, Democrat, Washington, said the Republican administration had elected and this made the inquiry into the Republican funds pertinent.

At the suggestion of Senator Walsh the committee deferred its decision and began the questioning of Thompson.

She was at the Chicago convention as a Harding supporter. The witness said he did not hear Jake Hanson, oil operator and Republican National committeeman for Oklahoma, "make a proposal of any kind to Senator Harding or his associates for the delivery of the Oklahoma delegation."

"Says No Offer Made To Him

"I certainly made no such proposition to me," he added.

Reading from a prepared statement, Thompson said:

"I have been called before you to tell about a statement which one Tiffin Gilmore (deputy secretary of the state of Ohio) testified before you that I was alleged to have made to him concerning political deals and other matters at the 1920 Republican National Convention held in Chicago.

"If Mr. Gilmore was quoted correctly in the newspapers he said that the conversation he was alleged to have had with me was upon a Pennsylvania train leaving Chicago about 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening, immediately after the convention, for Washington.

"I did not go to Washington from the convention. I took the New York Central train, known as the Twentieth Century Limited, on Sunday immediately following the convention direct to Cleveland.

"While on the train from Chicago to Cleveland I met several friends, among whom I recall Mr. C. H. Stanley and wife and John Price and wife, all of Cleveland. I engaged in conversation with them most of the time from Chicago to Cleveland. When I was not with them, I was visiting with a prominent steel manufacturer, who discussed with me the outlook for business. Being engaged in the ore and pig iron business myself, this was a matter of much interest to both of us, as we were at that time passing through a very inflated period.

"Did Not See Gilmore On Train

"I do not recall seeing Mr. Gilmore on the train and I did not have a conversation with him upon the subject referred to by him at any place or at any time. Mr. Gilmore must have been confused in this matter.

"I became acquainted with Mr. Jake Hanson after he arrived in Chicago for the convention. I did not hear him make a proposition of any kind to Senator Harding or his associates for the delivery of the Oklahoma delegation. He certainly made no such proposition to me.

"As to the oil lands that Mr. Gilmore suggested that I was interested in, perhaps in Southern California, I desire to say that I have never owned or been interested in any real estate outside of the state of Ohio and the state of Minnesota. I have not at any time owned an interest in an oil lease or lands purporting to contain oil. I have never bought, either directly or indirectly, sold or owned a share of oil stock."

Senator Walsh commented that the committee understood from Mr. Gilmore's testimony that Mr. Thompson was not interested in any oil land personally.

When did you first learn that Mr. Harding would be nominated? Senator Walsh asked.

"I learned along late in the evening prior to the nomination," Mr. Thompson began, "that the deadlock was hopeless between the three leading candidates and that Mr. Harding would be given additional votes next day with the object of seeing whether he could develop strength."

The witness was excused and Chairman Ladd read a telegram from J. T. O'Neill, of Will H. Hays' office in New York, denying that he had ever authorized a newspaper statement to the effect that Harry P. Sinclair, had given the Republican National Committee 75,000 shares of Sinclair oil stock. O'Neill said he had absolutely no knowledge of such a circumstance.

Reporter Says O'Neill Said It

Larold A. Vivian, a reporter for the New York Times, who wrote the story referred to, saying that it was unauthorized newspaper statement to the effect that Harry P. Sinclair, had given the Republican National Committee 75,000 shares of Sinclair oil stock. O'Neill said he had absolutely no knowledge of such a circumstance.

Vivian told of being instructed to see Hays to learn about the latter's appearance before the committee. On the search for Hays, he said, he found O'Neill, whom he described as "assistant" to Mr. Hays, in charge of the publicity.

Hays is going to tell the committee he got the stock," Vivian quoted O'Neill as saying. "I suppose he got it from Harry Sinclair. The two have been friends for years."

O'Neill covered the impression that he was thoroughly in Hays' confidence, the witness said, and talked about his principal receiving "an income of $40,000 a year from his Indiana law firm."

Vivian continued that later he had a telephone conversation with O'Neill before the story was published, confirming the story transaction, but arranging for its publication without quoting Hays.

Senator Stanford asked what 75,000 shares of Sinclair stock was worth at the time of the alleged gift, and Vivian put the figure at "somewhere about $1,000,000." In his discussion with O'Neill however, he said, the figure of $500,000 had come up.

"Mr. O'Neill didn't submit any proof, did he, to verify this story," asked Senator Bursum, Republican, New Mexico. "I wouldn't ask him for that," Vivian replied.

"O'Neill's telegram, the witness said,

"was almost in its entirety, false." Martin J. Powers, a Philadelphia attorney, then was questioned about a story by Charles E. Oelschlaeger, that Powers was to share in the lease of Teapot Dome.

"I never owned a blade of grass in Teapot Dome," Powers said in denying Oelschlaeger's statement, made in Philadelphia.

C. G. Chase, son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, declined to answer any questions by the oil committee on the ground that any answer he might make might tend to incriminate him.

Priest McKinney, of Cleveland, had testified that Chase visited him at his home to ask him to say that he had made the famous $100,000 loan to Fall. Powers denied interest.

Powers told of being interested in a Philadelphia brewery, now a near beer factory. He told of being acquainted with James G. Darden, whom he met in 1922.

"I've been accused of sending brandy to Mr. Harding," the witness put in, "and I want to say that's an atrocious lie."

He said he didn't know Attorney General Daugherty.

"You haven't any interest in Teapot Dome, then?" Senator Walsh asked. "Not one farthing."

Senator Walsh then asked if Powers hadn't told certain people that he was engaged in raising $10,000 for a Teapot Dome lease.

"That's a mean and contemptible lie," said Powers.

The men to whom he was alleged to have made the statement were given by Senator Walsh as Michael Curren and Charles Oelschlaeger.

Curren called to the witness stand, identified himself as a real estate broker and told of meeting Powers in the office of Oelschlaeger some time in 1922. The three met there four or five times.

"Did Powers speak of an interest in Teapot Dome, which he was taking with Colonel Darden?" asked Senator Walsh.

Talk of Big Oil Deal

"Yes," was the reply. Powers told him, he said, that Darden had contributed $225,000 to the Republican campaign fund.

"He said that he and Colonel Darden and John McGlynn were contemplating a big deal on Teapot Dome," Curren went on.

"Powers claimed great influence in Washington."

Curren said he was "pleading" with Powers for a payment to him of $6,000, but that Powers insisted he was "a little hard up because he had to raise $40,000 for Teapot Dome."

The $6,000 had been paid to Powers on a whiskey deal, he said, to "pay taxes" on 150 barrels of whiskey. "The deal for my part was legitimate," he added, but he never did get his money from Powers.

Oelschlaeger took the stand and said he heard Powers say he and Darden, McGlynn and two others were to put $40,000 each toward a lease of Teapot Dome.

"I heard Powers say Darden had contributed $200,000 to the Republican National campaign," he added, "and was excused."

He was the son of W. T. Wallace, prominent lumber man here and made his home with his father. He had formerly lived in Glen Hayes and left here this morning to visit his sister, who lives a few miles above that station. His sister said he intended to board No. 20 to return here.

Every Sunday School worker in the city is invited to the session this evening when the four speakers, men of years of experience in Bible School work will present interesting topics. The closing session begins at 7:30 sharp.

'Thats False' Cries Mother Of Crosser Who Faces Murder Charge In Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, March 21.—Unable to contain herself longer while Assistant Prosecutor Dasher was giving her son, Lester Davis, alias Clarence Crosser, a grueling cross-examination, Mrs. Frank Fox, of Portsmouth, O., shouted in Judge F. L. Hoffmann's court room here today: "That's false!"

The trial of Davis on a first degree murder charge had been resumed after a recess of two days.

"Isn't a fact that you were arrested on a charge of attacking a woman and pleaded guilty to assault and battery?" the assistant prosecutor asked Davis. (The question was one of several regarding Davis' reputation in Portsmouth where he formerly lived.)

Sheriff Harry Dunham, of Portsmouth, and George Morgan, a justice of the peace of Portsmouth, corroborated the defense's claim that Davis is the victim of mistaken identity.

Sheriff Dunham testified he has known Davis ten years and that he has not been in any serious trouble. Davis is charged with having been one of four bandits who attempted to hold up and rob Louis Knaus, motion picture theatre owner here the night of May 8, 1923. During the hold-up Edward McClain, one of the bandits, was accidentally shot by a companion.

Gillett Steps Down Off Rostrum To Defend Statements

WASHINGTON, Mar. 24.—Speaker Gillett's remarks about the senate made during a recent address in Boston stirred up a heated half hour debate in the house during which the speaker laid aside his gavel and took the floor to defend himself.

The discussion was precipitated by Representative Treadway, Republican, Massachusetts, who offered a resolution criticizing Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, for attacking the speaker on the senate floor Saturday.

Mr. Treadway withdrew his resolution at the speaker's request and the later, amid the cheers of his colleagues, stepped from the speaker's rostrum for a five minute speech.

Speaker Gillett told the house that he would interpose no objection to the house acting on any senate resolution questioning his right to make the references he did to that body.

Representative Wingo, Democrat, Arkansas, said before the speaker began his address, that Mr. Gillett in his Boston speech had violated the spirit of the house rules and in defending his action Mr. Gillett said certain Democratic members, including Mr. Wingo, in the last presidential campaign, had made remarks more uncomplimentary about the senate than he used.

Republicans interrupted the speaker several times to applaud and cheer him, particularly when Representative Conner, of Massachusetts, put in a remark that as a Democrat, he believed Mr. Gillett was within his rights and should have the privilege of free speech when not presiding over the house.

REVIVAL MEETINGS

First Presbyterian
Tonight is to be "Revival Night" in the evangelistic services being held at the old First where Rev. Warren J. Conrad is in charge. Favorite old hymns will be sung, favorite chapters of the Bible will be read and the favorite text in the Bible will be selected as the basis for the evening's sermon.

The Revivalist Warren J. Conrad spoke last night at the First Presbyterian evangelistic services on "The Poor Rich Man," the Rich Young Ruler who came to Christ seeking the secret of eternal life. In the opinion of his associates this young man had everything that the heart could wish—wealth, position, power. Measured by his own standards he had nothing to lack. From his youth up he had observed all the ritualistic requirements of the most orthodox sect of his nation.

The edifice of his life had been built upon the Masada law as set out in the Ten Commandments, so he said. Yet the Christ with unerring touch pointed out the fatal defect. In the wider application of "Thou shalt have no other Gods before me" the young man had been deficient. He put his possessions before his God, and turned away sorrowful. Every man who places anything ahead of God is violating this command. In this case it was wealth. With others it may be power, pleasure or lustiness.

Second Presbyterian

Two splendid congregations heard Dr. Frank M. Fox of Philadelphia, yesterday morning and evening, the first Sunday service to be held since the revival started last Tuesday night. Interest in the special meetings is growing and big congregations are expected each night this week, the second and last of the series. The subject of the evening was "The Sermon on the Mount" and the morning theme Sunday morning while last evening Dr. Fox chose as his subject "Secret Disciples." The young people of the C. E. organizations occupied the front section last night.

Tonight is Sunday School night when all members of the school, teachers and officers are expected to attend. Classes are to be held tonight for the Sunday School. Mr. Clem de Bruin rendered two more beautiful selections yesterday when he selected "Beautiful Garden of Prayer" and "Just The Same Old Story" as his offerings.

Bigelow Revival

Two large audiences helped to make the closing day of the special services a red letter day for Bigelow. As a result of the special effort, the pastor will have a class of probationers, who will be trained in the doctrines and policy of the church and later received into full connection. The morning service was made memorable by a searching message from Dr. J. B. Hawk. He dealt with the all-important problem of getting on with one another and based the message on 1 John 4th chapter. He showed that the attitude that we bear toward our fellow-men reflects in a large degree our attitude toward God. It is utterly irrelevant to say we hate our brother and love our God. Dr. Hawk said, "The great crying need of the world is the diffusion of the spirit of brotherhood as taught by Jesus Christ."

Miss Lottie Anderson sang with charming effect, "There is a Green Hill Far Away," by Gounod. Mr. Lynn sang "The Man of Galilee" and held the audience in rapt attention. Dr. Jackson closed the services with a fervent prayer.

At 7 p. m. Rev. Bright delivered the closing message of the campaign, choosing for his text the words of Paul, "Remember Jesus Christ." Mr. Lynn sang "Jesus is My Friend" with pleasing effect at the close of the service. The audience made the heart of Mr. Lynn glad by giving him a "Glorious Salute." Bigelow further showed his appreciation of Mr. Lynn's services by giving him a splendid offering. As he stepped on the train this morning, he spoke in the highest terms of Bigelow and Portsmouth. He declared his next meeting at Green St. M. E. church, Piqua, O., where he will work until Easter Sunday.

The church was delighted with Mr. Lynn's Gospel Song, "Praise The Lord." The Men's Bible class bought a grand supply of these books and several dozen copies were purchased by individuals. The book is in its third edition of ten thousand copies. The demand for this book is constant and large. It is published by Arthur Hays Sulzberger & Co., 24 Anna street, Dayton, Ohio.

The pastor and his people desire to thank the Sun-Times for the splendid fashion in which it has boosted these special services. These papers have always given liberal space and have shown a fine spirit of co-operation. The success of the campaign is due in no small measure to the publicity given through the columns of the Sun and Times.

Ohio Valley Grange Meets

One of the most successful meetings of Ohio Valley Grange was held at the regular place of meeting Friday night, March 21. The meeting opened in regular form with Floyd H. Lavender, Master, presiding. With one exception the officers were all present. The members present numbered 51.

After the opening song, "Ballad of the Republic," the Master appointed the following committee to make arrangements for the exhibit at the County Fair: Lester Winters, president; Roy Cunningham, Ohio Valley Grange, C. E. Winters, Mrs. Lena Sutton, Mrs. Helen Turner and Mrs. Lester Winters.

Arrangements were made for the Grange to assist the Sons of Veterans in Decoration exercises at the Friendship church. At this time the meeting was placed into the hands of the worthy lecturer, Mrs. Helen Turner. The lecture hour was opened with a talk given by Mrs. Lena Sutton, on "Poultry Raising."

Mock Trial at Trinity

As promised by the Sunday School Superintendent, John T. Breece, as an aftermath of the campaign for attendance there will be a mock trial held in the vestry of Trinity Church Tuesday evening beginning at 7:30. This meeting is for the adults of the Sunday School and church, the juniors and children having already had their programs. Besides Miss Blake's orchestra which will be on hand with its customary fine music, the chief attraction will be a mock trial to be conducted before Judge "Solomon" Shumway. Prof. Frank Appel is the prisoner and the charge has something to do with breaking a certain one of the Ten Commandments that has reference to the telling of the truth at all times. It seems that one C. C. Bennett has filed the affidavit because of a false story the Professor has been telling and which, according to the affidavit, avers that unless the said Prof. Appel is enjoined permanently from further broadcasting said fish story that other members of his men's class at Trinity will become incensed with the practice of breaking this commandment to the detriment of the entire congregation and especially for the sake of the wives of Trinity who he says fear that if such a state comes to pass they will not be able to tell when their husbands are telling them the truth. So you see the trouble is very deep seated. It is expected however, that the trial will settle the trouble and the prisoner, if guilty, receive just punishment.

H. Finney and John McMillan are attorneys for the prosecution while E. P. Price and E. C. Hood are to defend. Joseph Carlin is to be court bailiff, Harry Granston, sheriff, and W. H. Newman, court stenographer. Witnesses for the prosecution are Mrs. W. H. McCurdy, C. G. Bennett, Mrs. H. G. Granston, Mrs. McArthur, Mrs. J. P. Smith, G. P. Ashland, W. B. Anderson and Vaughn Finney. Witnesses for the defense are: Frank Appel, Rev. W. H. Smith, Merle Hood, P. V. Davidson, J. T. Breece, C. H. Bredner and W. H. McCurdy.

Mannington Says Daugherty Was Never In His House

PARIS, March 24.—(By the United Press)—"Attorney General Daugherty was never in my house in Washington during the six months I occupied it," said Howard K. Mannington, owner of the little green house on K street, and missing witness in the Daugherty investigation in a statement given to the United Press today.

Regarding the alleged conferences at the house (Jesse Smith, Daugherty, and others were declared to have conferred there) none such were ever held, the statement continued.

"I never secured or sought liquor withdrawals at any time as I have been absent from Washington for two and half years. I have no knowledge of matters now the subject of inquiry," said Mannington.

Mannington's name was mentioned by witnesses before the Daugherty committee in connection with an alleged conspiracy to obtain withdrawal permits for bonded liquor.

Declaring he intended to return to United States shortly as soon as business was completed, Mannington said, he had no objection to appearing before the committee.

MR. CHAS. E. MARING,
Stenboville, O.

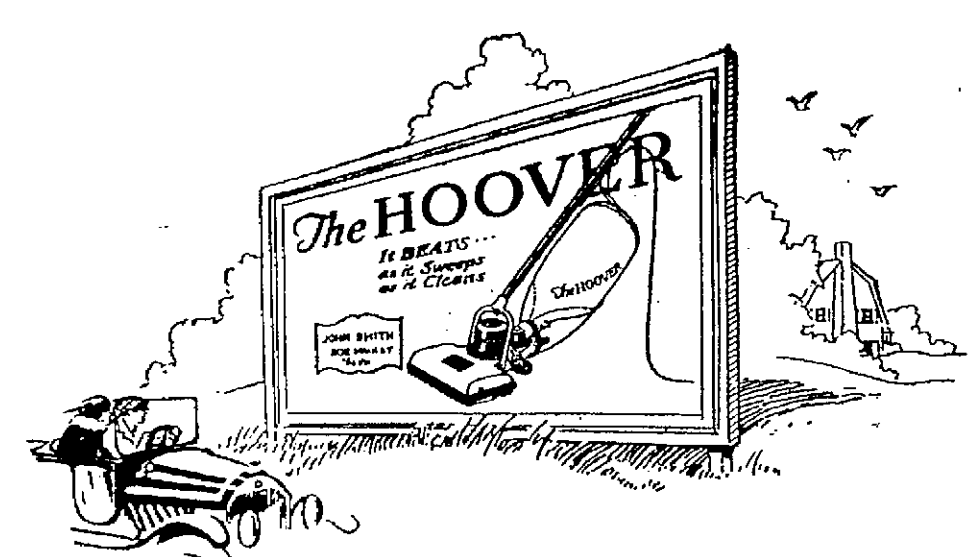

Of late years when a medical discovery is made and public tests of it are demanded so that its merit can be established, the person or concern to whom the discovery is credited, usually has so many people and on those occasions the remedy is tried.

Ka-dio-k, the new herbal stomach remedy, has been submitted to a far more severe series of tests, in that none of the cases it has relieved, has been repeated. Nevertheless Ka-dio-k has shown signal success in nearly every case.

In repeating its success here that has occurred in other cities. Every statement is being received from those who people testifying to the way they have been relieved by Ka-dio-k. One of the men is that of Mr. Charles E. Maring, a marine engineer, working on the river steamer, who lives at 1000 Market street, Stenboville, Ohio, a member of the L. O. O. F., at Washington, Pa. Mr. Maring is well known in Stenboville, and his integrity is absolutely unquestioned.

He says: "I have had trouble with my stomach over three years; had frequent indigestion, was always constipated, lost fifty pounds from my normal weight, could scarcely eat enough food, and never could sleep. Since taking Ka-dio-k the past week I have almost forgotten I ever had any stomach trouble. I have gained twelve pounds in a week, feel good enough to eat now, and a wonderful appetite, and am the time I go to bed till the morning. I feel years younger and am stronger, better shape than I have been in."

CLUB OWNER MAKES SKED: NOTE RESULTS

NEW ORLEANS, March 24.—Jules Heinemann, owner of the local Southern League club, was named chairman of the schedule committee last night, and in that capacity drew up the year's playing date.

In this league, as in all minor leagues, Sunday dates are the choice ones. Recently the new schedule was disclosed. The New Orleans club was awarded 23 out of the 28 Sunday dates. "How'd you ever overlook that twenty-third one?" Heinemann was asked. "Say, don't you suppose a club owner can have a conscience?" he exploded.

To Leave Thursday

Outfielder Harry Blake will leave Thursday for High Point, N. C., where he will play this season. Last year this team sent eight players to higher leagues.

Clubs Were Idle

CHICAGO, March 24.—Chicago's prospects in the American and National League pennant races were idle yesterday, the one because Sunday prohibited practice in Florida and the other because bad weather placed a black mark against the California climate.

Both will be in action today, however, the White Sox against the Boston Nationals at Worcester, Mass., and the Cubs facing the Portland Pacific Coast Leaguers at Stockton.

Reds Are Easy

The Reds never show much during Spring training. They have only won two games in the South, below white meat for all comers. But these games do not count in the National League standing. Oh, dear, no.

Team Looks Good

The Brooklyn team has been making a fine showing in the South. The team has been hitting well and the pitchers seem to be in mid-season form. Manager Robinson insists that he has a first division outfit this year.

Southworth Rapping Pill

Billy Southworth is rapping the game for keeps this spring and many of his words are for extra bases. He evidently is in for one of the best years of his career.

Billy Evans Says

Of late we have been fed up on the pro and con of golf as it relates to baseball.

Some managers have placed an absolute ban on golf during the training period and are enforcing it.

Other managers say they can see no harm in the game at any time, if the players do not let golf get a greater hold than baseball.

What does it all mean?

Played with proper discretion just about sums up the golf situation with reference to baseball.

Golf is more or less a test of individual prowess. One day a player makes 95 strokes to cover 18 holes. The next day he cuts it to an 88.

One gets a personal satisfaction as well as dissatisfaction out of golf that comes from no other game. The play of the individual constantly fluctuates and the score does likewise.

There is always a desire on the part of the golfer, and that goes for the dyed-in-the-wool professional, to better some previous score. He has an objective every time out.

For that reason golf is an insidious pastime, and unless one is very determined, it breaks in on his routine business.

Playing 18 holes, two or three times a week in the early morning hours during spring and fall harms no ball player.

On the other hand, 18 holes on any hot summer morning takes its toll out of the ball player for the afternoon's work.

It is that feature to which most managers object. They don't want the players to overdo it during the hot weather when the race in the majors has usually narrowed down to certain clubs.

I once heard a manager say that he would much prefer his men to play nine holes of golf early in the morning than sleep until a late hour.

Playing golf won't hurt any ball player unless he prefers his golf to baseball. Such being the case, he cuts into his livelihood to no small degree.

HOLED OUT 200 YARD DRIVE

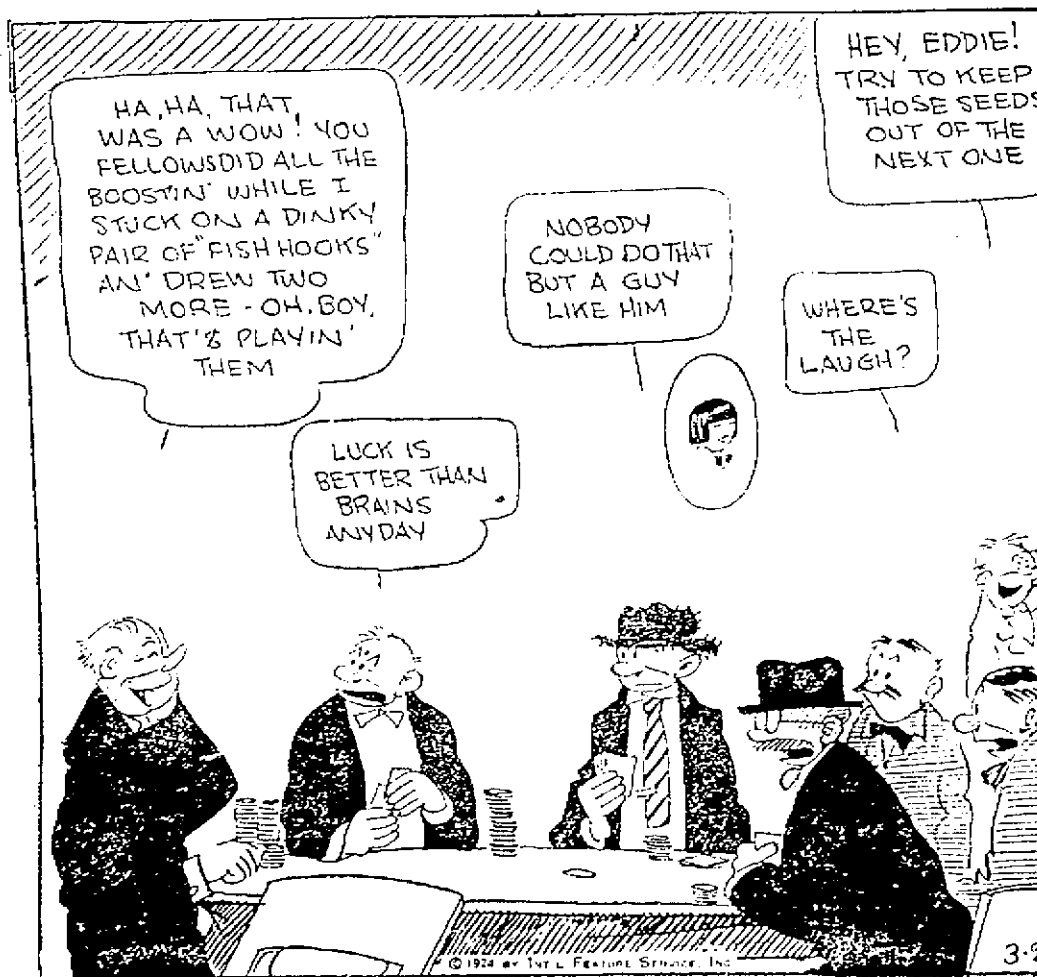

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 24.—Chas. Weichman, the Portsmouth professional, dubbed his drive for the first hole on the Flamingo Course here today, and then holed out on his second shot, a matter of about 200 yards. He played with a full iron.

Weichman is the pro for the Portsmouth Golf Club and is due to arrive in Portsmouth April 1 to take up his work for 1924.

Chillicothe Finished Second

CHILLICOTHE, O., March 24.—The third quarter, which closed the home on all hopes of a victory, as up to that time he had been holding Mossharper tight, and it is around Miller that all rallies are centered. With him gone there was little chance of staging a last quarter rush.

Ten games were played, Chillicothe lost 2. Greenfield finished in third place, with seven victories. Hillsboro finished in fourth, Washington C. H. fifth and Circleville sixth, Circleville dropping nine contests.

SARASOTA, Fla., Mar. 24.—Big league rookies are getting their necks measured for stylish two-piece suits and will soon be back in Wall-Hollow, Me., telling the home-town boys what an awful egg he is.

No rookie in spring training camp ever got a fair shake. Either the stowed cucumber who managed the team played favorites or else he wouldn't recognize a coming ball player if he wore a trade mark and was sewed up at the seams.

Colb came up from nowhere. Spenser was four lengths back of that. A southern professor went bitterly sniping and bagged Jack but only sniping and bagged Jack by mistake. Even Charley Ebers would give a couple of smackers for these lads as an outfield, if delivered freight prepaid.

Most interesting species of rookie genius is 100,000 beauty who comes into camp with all of great importance, and in week or so is given the air with no importance attached thereto.

Rookies you hear least about are generally the ones that step into swift circles and knock the rest of the league low-legged. Berlenbach was just a wrestler until he got a reputation. He is still just a wrestler.

Scouts who close eyes and pick up second Babe Ruths in bushes are called ivory lumbers, which is slanderous to four-footed lumber producers. You can make ash trays and mah jongg sets out of ivory. Most rookies open and close their eyes with "Bring me some of that, too."

Every spring big league clubs being approximately 1387 diamonds in the rough down south for observation. Most of 'em need it.

These crude gems always turn out to be golden stones with this coating of Mississippi clay. A clay pack may transform a roughie into a Valentino, but it's wasted energy on a left-handed pen shooter.

IF LINCOLN HAD OWNED A RADIO

A BRAHAM LINCOLN as a boy and young man studied far into the night by the flickering light from a fire-place, doing problems in arithmetic with chalk on a shovel. Much of his wisdom and future greatness originated there by the log fire.

We sometimes wonder how much studying Lincoln would have done at night if he had owned a radio set. Being decidedly human, he undoubtedly would have wasted a lot of time amusing himself with concerts coming mysteriously through the night.

Radio in moderation is not a waste of time. It provides the entertainment necessary for relaxation, in which the brain's batteries recharge themselves. All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy. But not as dull as all play and no work.

Many hundreds of thousands of radio bugs devote the entire evening to their receiving sets—even losing needed sleep. They enjoy it, but it gets them nowhere. Some of their radio time could be profitably devoted to studying how to become fitted to hold a better and more responsible job.

The answer in the majority of cases, of course, is that if their spare time weren't monopolized by radio, they'd be wasting it some other way.

The writer pleads guilty to being one of the people inclined to carry radio to excess, thereby wasting valuable time that could more profitably be used for self-improvement. But radio is not alone in this matter. Back of it all is a fundamental law: Extremes meet, and the best of things can be carried to extremes.

Economy is a virtue. Carried to extremes, to stinginess, it is a vice. Liberality is commendable, but developed to its logical conclusion makes one a spendthrift. Wise is the man who works hard, foolish the man who works too hard. "Sharp dealing" and cunning carried to extremes, easily can become dishonesty.

So it goes. You like polite people, but there is such a thing as being annoyingly courteous. Fine sentiments are commendable; an extreme tendency this way becomes sickening. We're not sure that it is possible to be too good, though James Whitcomb Riley once brilliantly described a certain man as a fellow without a single redeeming vice.

Common sense is in moderation, sticking to the middle of the road, carrying nothing to extremes.

ENTER THAT FICKLE GODDESS

WINTER leaves us but it is not certain that March will be lamblike for the rest of its term.

Nevertheless, the first day of spring brings a renewal of hope even to the most skeptical of weather prophets. The sun is getting higher and hotter, the days are growing longer, and belated cold spells are of brief duration. There are many worse places, climatically speaking, than Portsmouth. The extremes of temperature here are not so great as they are elsewhere. Our coldest days do not freeze, nor our hottest broil, as in some "parts."

Take the year around, we have an extraordinary number of days in which life in the open air is pleasant. The smiles of temperamental nature are sure to be more frequent for the next eight months than her frowns. This city is peculiarly blessed in the beauty of the surrounding country and in the open spaces within its own limits. From henceforth the call of sport will be strong. Everybody has the habit of grumbling at the weather. But now that spring is really here a word of appreciation is in order.

Those searching for the cause of increased longevity of the human race are informed that there are only half as many medical schools, and fewer students, than 20 years ago.

A physician estimates that elimination of city noises would increase the average span of life seven years. But perhaps a quiet life would only seem that much longer.

A lot of people had no intention of giving up anything in Lent, and then income tax time came along.

An oil gusher has been drilled in Germany, just as though that country didn't have trouble enough already.

NEW YORK DAY-BY-DAY

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 24—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Early up and came word my old work fellow Browne Holmes is dead in California and sad news, albeit I have come to believe, grief for those who pass from sight is selfish, for if life were not endless it would be a futile thing.

So to lunch with R. Valentino, the cinema player, who is all enthusiasm for a new jumping tin-type he is making, and thence to labour all the afternoon with few interruptions, for which the Lord be thanked. In the late afternoon to join some roysters in Grove street and William Stevens McNutt and Ray Long there and much rag tag and bobtail, and later to the opening of the Green Room Club's new building and staid until 2 in the morning, a foolish thing to do. So to bed.

The chief aim of the average New Yorker is to achieve what is known as "smartness." For the young girl it means bright patter about tussling plays, exquisitely polished nails, trapeze earrings and a rather studied coqueness. For the young man it means bright sox, "ca wagon wise-cracks," a non-existent superiority for ordinary things and vascinated hair. Mother must bob her hair into a state of negroid frizziness and know the latest dance step. Only father appears to retain sober sanity. He dangles rather helplessly on the sidewalk—looking on, paying the bills, and perhaps wondering what it is all about.

Bob Davis, the magazine editor who is skillful in finding literary gold among the dross, was recently in California. While there he met a very earnest young writer who had enriched literature with a single short story in a not too prominent magazine. The burden appeared to weigh heavily on frail shoulders.

"What," he asked Mr. Davis, "is the attitude of the eastern press toward the western writer?"

"Very calm," was the sober reply.

A heavy rain was drenching downtown New York and a high wind was blowing a furious gale. The pedestrians who sought shelter under the protesting arches of Brooklyn Bridge huddled together like sheep. Now and then there was a forked flash of lightning and a crash of thunder. A man mounted an abandoned box and started to pray. Men removed their

On wash-days when the clothes are out. All planned and hung so neatly. He falls upon them with a shout. And fills them up completely. Around the laundry yard he tears. With twist and turn and antic. While all the things that come in pairs Perform a ballet frantic.

And when night falls and heavy sleep On every lid is hanging. In through a crevice he will creep To set some door a banging. "Dunghus," the startled housewife cries. And burrows beneath the pillows. While far afield the March Wind flies And laughs among the willows. —Rollo Cheppard.

Her Teacher Was a Flapper Teacher—"Boys, I have here a painting of Venus. Johnnie, what do you adore most about her?" Johnnie—"Her neck and arms, teacher." Teacher—"Take your hat and go home. Now Henry, what do you admire about her?" Henry—"Her limbs and ankles, teacher." Teacher—"Take your hat and go home. Now Tommie, what do you admire most about her?" Tommie—"Aw give me my hat." Teacher—"Tommie, come back, what do you mean?" Tommie—"Aw ge I like her 'cause she ain't got bobbed hair."

THE MARCH WIND
The March Wind is a buxorious lad. The wisest of the breezes. Who likes to rush around like mad. And do just what he pleases. He whistles underneath the doors And shakes the window sashes. Then down the chimney loudly roars And scatters all the ashes.
